

Idaho faces $17 million shortfall

BOISE (UPI) — The state is facing a $17-million revenue shortfall which must be made up over the next seven weeks.

Deep cuts in government spending are needed if the budget is to be balanced by the end of the fiscal year, Gov. John Evans announced Friday.

Evans, referring to a report released earlier Friday by the Idaho Tax Commission, said he would meet with department heads to discuss ways to trim agency spending to balance the budget by the June 30 fiscal-year deadline, as required by the Idaho Constitution.

The governor, who said the shortfall was the most serious in recent state history, added he would make an announcement on his spending-reduction program Monday.

Richard Slaughter of the governor's fiscal office said it would require a 25-percent across-the-board cut in department outlays to balance the budget if state income continues to lag behind as expected during the rest of May and June.

Slaughter said state agencies only have $38 million and the public school system only $23 million in spending options for the rest of this fiscal year. And he said the short time left in the fiscal year makes it "virtually impossible" that revenues could rise sufficiently to offset the shortage.

Evans said it was not until Tax Commission officials this week prepared their analysis of income during April that they realized a serious shortfall in revenues was occurring.

Collections during that month were 3.9 percent short of income for April of 1981 and $11 million below projections relied upon for state budgeting, Evans said. He noted most of the problem came in lower income and sales tax contributions, which the governor said was "most definitely" the result of President Reagan's

Economic Recovery Act.

Although income was down $4 million in March, Evans said state fiscal officers did not become alarmed until they saw the figures for April — the month most Idahoans file their income tax returns.

The 1981 Legislature had predicted revenues during the current fiscal year would total nearly $426 million. Those lawmakers, fearful that a continued recession could lower earnings, passed a general fund budget of $422 million.

In comparison, Evans had projected revenues of $438 million for the fiscal year which began July 1, 1981.

The governor submitted a proposed budget of $452 million which assumed that new accounting methods, fiscal juggling and a general improvement in the economy would boost earnings above his original projection.

He admitted Friday the current fiscal pinch "would be much worse" if lawmakers had relied on his ### figures.

The governor blamed most of the current fiscal crunch facing Idaho on the Reagan Administration's economic policies. He said that program has put millions out of work and has dampened growth in all sectors.

High unemployment and interest rates directly correspond to lower state income, the governor said. In addition, he said the federal program has particularly hurt such industries as mining, timber and construction — ones which are vital to Idaho's economic health.

Although Evans said he has not yet determined how to cut state spending to balance the budget, he added, "I doubt anyone will be exempt" from the reductions. Many Idaho employees may have to take "furloughs or administrative leaves" from their jobs to cut down the state's weekly $2 million payroll, he said.

"By July this budget will be balanced," the governor pledged during a news conference in his office.

Jobless figures climb

By Knight-Ridder

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate surged to 9.4 percent in April, the highest since 1941.

Congressional Democrats immediately branded President Reagan's economic policies a "failure" and rushed to assemble their own emergency $2 billion public works jobs program.

Idaho unemployment also increases — A2

The Labor Department reported Friday that 10.3 million Americans were out of work last month as unemployment rose among adult males, blue-collar workers, blacks and teenagers climbed to the highest levels since World War II.

Since the recession began last summer, 3.5 million people have been added to the ranks of the jobless, the government said.

Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that in the last month alone, 450,000 Americans were thrown out of work.

April normally brings new job because of the spring weather, but this year the deep recession took a heavy toll among construction and manufacturing workers, Norwood said. "The response of the economy

Sentiment business booming for moms

United Press International

There may be fires, floods, general civil disorder, broken legs and the Falklands crisis — but nothing stands in the way of Mother's Day.

And across the country Friday, florists, and card and candy shop owners reported they were doing a roaring business in sentiment.

"For Mother's Day, people seem willing to spend what it takes," said Baltimore florist Gilbert Becker.

"People are not having any problems spending sums up to $50," echoed Minneapolis florist shop manager Gwen Barnum. "This year, we exceeded last year's sales Thursday with today expected to be our peak day."

Then there were the Texas big spending sons, with Dallas florist Ricky Schwartz explaining that white lavender orchids were the top seller.

According to Hallmark Cards, more than 150 million Mother's Day cards were going out this year.

The National Trade Association of Commercial Cut Rose Growers said the nation's moms would receive 35 million roses. And nobody seemed to know how many delbusting boxes of chocolates were moving homebound.

But when the it came to the wistline, Springfield, Ill., candy shop owner Mary Metz said, "People forget about that on Mother's Day."

Dallas candy shop manager Norma Oliver said she was waiting for the absent-minded types to get in gear.

"Tomorrow is when we sell the candy because husbands always have the tendency to wait until the last day," she said Friday.

In Boston, gourmet shop manager June Bezan said cost was no object when it came to honoring mother.

"Sales are just as strong Mother's Day as Easter, Valentine's Day and Christmas," she said.

In Manhattan, Deirdre Schecter, manager of the huge Hallmark Gallery, said this year's trend was "very traditional, sentimental and flowery."

"Customers don't seem receptive to humorous or kinky cards for Mother's Day," she said.

"Mostly younger people buy the mushy cards and older people buy the funny ones," said Baltimore shop owner Dorothy Johnson.

Bliss studies mandatory firearm law

BLISS — Mayor Roland Zollinger has urged Bliss City Council to follow a few other cities by passing an ordinance that would require residents to own firearms and ammunition.

A follow-up program of lessons in the use of firearms also should be established, the mayor told council at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

Council agreed unanimously to have its attorney research the issue and draw up a draft of a gun-requirement ordinance. Zollinger said the vote was preliminary, and council will decide later whether the advantages of such an ordinance would outweigh its disadvantages.

But he said Friday that he supported the idea because of its deterrent effect on crime. "I think it's good, I'm surprised that so few other towns haven't heard of this."

The idea originated with news accounts of a Georgia community that had required the possession of handguns, he said. "I believe in (people) knowing how to operate a weapon."

Zollinger said that, for a town its size, Bliss has a crime problem sufficient to justify the ordinance. He cited a shooting, a stabbing and a number of burglaries in the last year as examples.

"Most people don't want to fool around with somebody who is armed."

It's as simple as that," the mayor said.

"It seems to me the criminals have been getting away with it for too long. The liberals in the courts just turn them loose back on the streets. People have to have the means to defend themselves."

The mayor was careful to add, however, that he is not advocating that people start "packing guns around town."

Britain's blockade extends near coast

By United Press International

Britain extended its naval blockade of the Falkland Islands to within 12 miles of the Argentine coast Friday.

New attack jets and war ships were dispatched as Britain warned it may bomb Argentina's mainland air bases if a last-hope peace bid fails.

Argentine military spokesmen denounced the new blockade as a "trick" and its defense minister vowed "Argentina is ready to defend itself at any and every point of our territory."

The official Argentine news agency TELAM all but confirmed reports of British reconnaissance missions on the islands. It said a British rubberboat "of the kind used for troop landings" was found near Port Stanley, along with radio, life vests and flares.

Efforts to negotiate a cease-fire continued at the United Nations, but there was no direct contact between Britain and Argentina. The foreign ministry in Buenos Aires said Britain's "absence of good faith" had "seriously perturbed" any chance for Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar to gain a truce.

No fighting was reported for a third day in the South Atlantic. Military analysts said the lull allowed both nations to regroup from bloody sea and air battles this week in which each lost a key war ship. Britain also lost three Harrier jets — one in combat; two apparently in a bad weather accident.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher speeded up reinforcements for the 40-ship war fleet, flying in 20 more Harrier fighter-bombers and sending several more destroyers and frigates with helicopters and 3,000 new troops.

Argentina has 9,000 troops on the Falklands. Sources said Mrs. Thatcher also dispatched Nimrod AWACS-type planes to give early warning of Argentine missile attacks such as the one that Tuesday destroyed the HMS Sheffield, one of the best destroyers in the British fleet.

The British Defense Ministry said it widened the naval blockade "because of the proximity of Argentine bases and the distance that hostile forces can cover undetected, particularly at night."

NEA honors TV productions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Education Association honored 11 television productions and one video program, ranging from Captain Kangaroo to a series on teen-age sex, for their contribution to learning.

The criteria for choosing the winners of NEA's Award for the Advancement of Learning through Broadcasting included interesting approach, lack of bias, high artistic and technical standards and cultural and social significance.

Winners included:

- CBS News correspondent Bill Moyers for "People Like Us," a documentary on the plight of the poor in the United States.
- Bob Keeshan, originator, producer and star of "Captain Kangaroo."
- Warner Amex Satellite Entertainment Co. of New York for "Nickelodeon, the world's only all-children's cable television network."
- "Summit Broadcasting of Atlanta for "Epidemic: Why Your Kid is on Drugs," an hour-long documentary, and related news programs.
- "Tomorrow Entertainment-Medcom of CBS-TV in New York for "Becoming a Man" and "Becoming a Woman," an adolescent sexuality from the series "The Body Human."

Prayer bill may fail in House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A key congressman said Friday President Reagan's proposed constitutional amendment to permit voluntary prayer in public schools is divisive, diversionary and faces probable defeat in the House.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee subcommittee, which first considered the proposal, told UPI "more than a majority" of his panel opposes it.

"We'll study it and look at it and maybe, down the road, have hearings," Edwards said. "I doubt we'll approve it."

He said whether the subcommittee holds hearings depends on "how exercised the public gets about it... It's been around a long time."

School presidents get raises

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The State Board of Education Friday approved a flat 5 percent salary increase for its chief officers, which will become effective July 1.

University Idaho President Richard Gibb will receive the highest pay, his salary increasing from $57,115 this year to $59,971.

Idaho State University President Myron Coulter will receive the next largest salary of $56,848, compared with this year's $54,141.

Boise State University President John Keiser will be paid $54,307, compared to $51,719 this year. Keiser, the only president who does not live in a state-owned home, will also receive a 5 percent increase in his housing allowance.

Hinckley physically normal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three doctors who examined John W. Hinckley Jr. for ringing in his ears, dizziness and myriad other complaints testified Friday they found he was physically normal in the months before he shot President Reagan.

Dr. Robert von Rueden, a Denver internist who saw Hinckley in February 1980, said he thought Hinckley was suffering from "anxiety neurosis with stress and some psychosomatic illness," where "emotional problems sometimes cause physical symptoms."

When a prosecutor asked if Hinckley's complaints of stomach pains might have been brought on by repeated dinners of pizza and soda, Von Rueden provoked laughter from Hinckley along with spectators by responding, "That's possible."

Utah suspected drug kingpin

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — U.S. Magistrate Daniel A. Hop refused Friday to reduce the $2 million bail for a suspected drug kingpin and ordered the Utah man removed to New Jersey to face a federal grand jury narcotics indictment.

That New Jersey indictment charges Jeb Wilson of Orem, Utah, with being a ring leader in a conspiracy to bring more than $100 million worth of hashish from Lebanon into the United States in March of 1979.

The suspect — whose real name is John A.B. Wilson — was arrested at his Orem music shop Wednesday. He has been held in the Salt Lake County Jail since his arrest on the $2 million bail set by a New Jersey federal judge.

Alsup only had to determine whether the Utah man was the man named in the New Jersey case.

Flood warnings near Boise

BOISE (UPI) — The Bureau of Reclamation's decision to increase the Boise River flow to 7,000 cubic feet per second below Lucky Peak Dam prompted National Weather Service officials Friday to issue a flood warning for the Treasure Valley belowland.

Bob Brown, bureau project superintendent, said the flow would be boosted from 6,500 cfs to 7,000 cfs Tuesday due to unusually excessive spring runoff along the upper Boise River system.

"We don't think this will cause any problems," Brown said. "All along the river, irrigation diversions are being made and the river level will be lower (than normally expected when the flow is allowed to go above 6,500 cfs)."

Brown said the runoff forecast for the Boise River drainage for May through July this year was 158 percent of normal.

Local unemployment rises

TWIN FALLS — Unemployment in Idaho and the Magic Valley rose during April, with the state rate reaching a record high.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for April climbed 0.5 percent to 8.2 percent, Scott McDonald, the state Employment Department director, said Friday.

"The April figure is the highest since 1965," he said. "It also is 2.4 percentage points above the April 1981 rate of 5.8 percent."

In Teton, Jerome and Gooding counties, the unemployment rate rose 0.1 percent to 6.7 percent during April. This compares with a rate of 5.2 percent during April of 1981.

However, the Magic Valley unemployment rate is no worse than during the high point of the previous employment cycle, said Lon McDonald, the area labor-market analyst for the state Department of Employment.

Unemployment during the last 12 months has averaged nearly 5.2 percent. This closely parallels 1976, when the rate averaged 6.1 percent, and the first few months of 1977, when the local rate soared briefly into the 8 percent range.

The monthly state employment report also revealed that the number of unemployed in Idaho increased 2,200, to 35,100 in April.

"This is the highest number of unemployed workers ever recorded in Idaho," Scott McDonald said.

"The number of people out of work, yet actively seeking work, was nearly 40 percent above the April 1981 figure of 25,100."

"The negative effects of the national recession continue to influence Idaho's economy and labor force," he said. "Portions of the economy which normally would be showing increases in employment are remaining unchanged."

Agriculture, construction and retail trade are all examples of sectors lacking their normal seasonal growth, he said.

Jobs

has been exceedingly weak," she added in an interview.

The 8.4 percent unemployment rate, up from 9 percent in March, was the highest since the government recorded an annual rate of 9.9 percent in 1941. The government did not start keeping monthly unemployment statistics until 1948.

The all-time high unemployment rate was 24.9 percent in 1933, at the depths of the Great Depression. The last time 10.3 million people were unemployed was 1938, when the overall labor force was much smaller.

As the new statistics were made public, congressional Democrats hastily assembled their own proposal for fighting unemployment with an emergency, $2 billion public works and housing stimulus program. It marked the first time in this recession that Democrats had returned to the kind of spending programs the party has used against unemployment since the days of President Roosevelt.

The increase in unemployment during April was widespread, the Labor Department reported. The jobs rate for adult men was 8.2 percent, a post-World War II high. For adult women it was 8.3 percent, just shy of the 8.5 percent record set in the 1975 slump.

The jobs rate for black workers reached 18.7 percent and for black teen-agers 48.1 percent. Both were the highest levels of black unemployment recorded since statistics were first kept in 1947.

Murderer wants to be executed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Convicted murderer Gerald J. Smith says he is "being paid no mind" in his desire for execution and will not sue until the state's Supreme Court grants his request to die in the gas chamber.

Smith, who confessed he beat his girlfriend to death so she could "feel some pain" for giving him a venereal disease, was convicted and sentenced to die Oct. 13. But the execution was stayed through appeals.

Missouri Chief Justice Robert T. Donnelly said Smith's demand would be brought before the court at its closed monthly conference Tuesday and that a hearing on the matter could possibly be set for the September term.

"I don't know what the court will do," Donnelly said. "It's a damnable question."

night and in bad weather." It warned any Argentine war ship or plane in the new zone would be regarded "as hostile and liable" to attack.

In Buenos Aires, 10 Argentine sailors killed in a Sea King helicopter attack on a patrol boat Monday were buried and a military spokesman branded the blockade as "a trick to justify a possible submarine attack on our ships."

Another sailor with scars: "We will respect the old blockade just like we respected the new one." Argentina claims it has repeatedly broken the 200-mile air-and-sea blockade established April 30 around the Falklands, 490 miles from its coast, but U.S. intelligence sources said it appeared Argentina's war fleet had pulled back close to the mainland.

The Foreign Ministry declared the blockade "contradicts" London's peaceful intentions and "seriously" perturbs all possibility of negotiations at the United Nations, where Argentine Deputy Foreign Minister Enrique Ros arrived for talks with the secretary-general.

The U.N. appeared to falter Thursday when Argentina vowed the Falklands territory — the key issue that sparked Argentina's seizure of the Falklands April 2.

British officials disclosed 30 more Harrier jets would be flown to the Falklands, rather than sent by sea as originally planned.

They said the war fleet also will receive more destroyers and frigates armed with Sea Wolf anti-missile missiles — to counter Argentina's deadly Exocet — the French-made rocket that disabled the Sheffield.

Von Bulow sentenced to 30 years

Saturday, May 8, 1982 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho A-3

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Claus von Bulow was sentenced to 30 years in prison Friday for twice trying to murder his heiress wife with insulin injections that turned her into a "sleeping beauty."

But he may be free on $1 million bail pending an appeal.

Von Bulow, 55, showed no emotion as Judge Thomas H. Needham sentenced him to 10 years on one count of attempted murder and 20 years — the maximum — on a second count involving the insulin shot that plunged his wife Martha, "Sunny" von Bulow into an irreversible coma.

The sentences are to be served consecutively, and von Bulow would have to serve 10 years before becoming eligible for parole.

Needham continued von Bulow's $500,000 bail until next Friday when it will be upped to $1 million. If the financier cannot prove by noon on that day he can provide the required 10 percent cash for the higher bail, he will be sent to the state Adult Correctional Institutions in Cranston.

The Danish-born jet-setter was ordered to remain in Rhode Island until the accounting was completed.

The gallery in the packed courtroom audibly sighed when the judge announced the 10-year sentence on the first count.

"Quiet in the courtroom!" a court deputy told the crowd, which stayed hushed when the second sentence was read to von Bulow, who sat quietly with his daughter, Cosima, 15, at his side.

Von Bulow said "no comment" when asked about the sentences as he was leaving the courthouse with his lawyer Herald Price Fahringer. A crowd of about 200 cheered him on as the defendant left in a yellow cab.

Prosecutor Stephen Famiglietti asked Needham to sentence the fall, balding financier to a maximum of 30 years for the "cold-blooded, cold-hearted, calculated and premeditated" attempts on his wife's life.

"He has not shown any remorse at all for these heinous crimes," the prosecutor said. "Taking all of that into account, the state feels it has no alternative but to recommend maximum penalty for both offenses."

"If this defendant does not go to jail ... it is a message that any married man can kill his wife," Famiglietti said.

Fahringer said von Bulow had shown "no remorse, your honor, because there is no guilt. Only two people in this whole world know what happened — Mr. von Bulow and Mrs. von Bulow."

"If Mrs. von Bulow was here today, she would come in here and tell this court that Mr. von Bulow has done nothing to harm her."

Labor, Democrats rap Reagan for job rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union leaders and Democrats blamed President Reagan Friday for the nation's 9.4 percent unemployment rate, while economists disagreed on whether it will get worse.

House Democratic leaders announced steps to funnel $2 billion in federal job-creating funds to "high unemployment areas."

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., referred to those unemployed as on "Ronald Reagan's breadline," saying the country "is now harvesting the bitter fruit" of failed administration policies.

"Americans are losing their homes, their hopes, their savings and their pride," Kennedy said.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, said "Reagan's policies" aren't just mistaken, they are wicked.

President Reagan responded by calling the Democrats "obstructionists" and accusing them of "demagoguery" in blaming the spiraling unemployment on him.

"No, they can't blame it on our policies," he declared.

House Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas said half of the $2 billion of the job-creation money would be contained in the housing bill expected to come up for a vote in the House on Tuesday. Under the legislation, the government would assist low-income homebuyers to reduce the mortgage interest rate to an affordable level.

In Hot Springs, Va., where the influential Business Council is meeting, presidential assistant Edwin Harper told reporters the administration has no plans to take emergency measures.

"When you get right down to it, the fundamentals are an improved health economy," he said. Massive bailout programs would only add to large budget deficits and work "against ourselves in terms of turning around the unemployment situation," he asserted.

he headed off horseback riding, called the Democrats "obstructionists."

"Let the Democrats in the House and Senate join us in adopting the budget that was passed out of the Senate Budget Committee and let us get that spending down," he said. "If they do that, not only will unemployment come down but interest rates, and the economy will bounce back."

GOP budget faces rough road in Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Budget Committee chairman James Jones, D-Okla., predicted Friday the compromise Senate GOP budget plan will not pass the House.

There were indications it also might have trouble in the Republican Senate as well.

In addition to seeking $95 billion in new tax revenue, the plan approved by the Senate Budget Committee Thursday night, and endorsed by President Reagan, would seek to slice $40 billion from Social Security costs over three years.

Republicans hold a 54-46 majority in the Senate, but GOP Sen. John Chafee of Rhode Island already has come out against the plan's attempt to cut Social Security spending by $6 billion in fiscal 1983, $17 billion in 1984 and $17 billion in 1985.

Republican Sen. John Heinz of Pennsylvania, without choosing sides yet — hinted he may oppose the Social Security provision. Heinz, a member of the Senate Finance Committee, said the plan would have "tough sledding" in the GOP-dominated panel.

Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., the liberal thorn in the Republican leadership's side, probably also will oppose the Social Security provision.

Senate GOP leader Howard Baker, who confidently predicted Thursday the budget plan would "fly" through the Senate, said he will try to bring it up on the floor for a vote within the next two weeks.

But the Senate must deal Tuesday with an amendment to a defense authorization bill that would put the body on record as opposing the Social Security provision in the plan. The Democratic amendment sparked a heated debate late Thursday.

Jones, appearing on NBC's Today show, said: "The plan that is in the Senate at the present will not be able to pass in the House. The Republican minority leader announced yesterday he didn't think it would pass."

"We're going to go after a truly bipartisan compromise if at all possible," said Jones, who plans to begin House drafting of a budget plan Tuesday. "And that means there will have to be some changes in the alternative the president endorsed yesterday."

Education building fund request OK'd

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The State Board of Education Friday approved $4.3 million of building requests to the Idaho Permanent Building Fund, and met with the state's three Public Television station managers.

Agencies and institutions submitted fiscal year 1984 project funding requests of nearly $15.8 million, but a board subcommittee suggested paring its recommendation — back to $4.3 million.

The board's requests, listed in priority order, will be submitted to the Permanent Building Fund Advisory Council, which will decide among construction proposals submitted by all state agencies.

The board's top priority is a $600,000 request to correct life-safety-code deficiencies and improve handicapped access at Boise State University, Idaho State University, the University of Idaho and Lewis-Clark State College.

Those institutions had asked for almost $2.3 million in this category. The board also announced it will begin a search for a manager of Idaho's newly-centralized public broadcasting system.

Board President Eugene Miller of Coeur d'Alene said the board will seek applications for the position until May 31. He said a three-member screening committee will evaluate the applications and make a recommendation to the full board when it meets at Grangeville June 17.

The board met in closed session with the managers of KATV-TV at Boise, KISU-TV at Pocatello and KUID-TV at Moscow, one day after deciding to adopt a new organizational structure of a central manager with an assistant manager at each of the three stations.

Miller said only one of the station managers — Jack Schlaefle of KATV — had expressed interest in the position, but had told the board he was unable to make a commitment at this time.

Other requests for funds from the board, and priority order are:

- *$2,000,000 to complete the Life Science Building addition at the UI.

- *$352,000 to renovate the industrial Arts Building at ISU.

- *$500,000 to complete the basement of the Sam Glenn Instructional Center at LCSC.

- *$330,000 for energy conservation projects at BSU, ISU, and the State School for the Deaf and the Blind in Gooding.

- *$238,000 to finish renovating the BSU gymnasium, providing more classroom space.

- *$100,000 for property acquisition for BSU.

- *$100,000 for preliminary architectural and engineering work for a proposed library and computer science building at North Idaho College.

Chevron pipeline leak spills 400,000 gallons of gasoline

BOISE (UPI) — Chevron Pipeline Co. officials say 400,000 gallons of gasoline and other fuels spilled into the ground last year from a leaking fuel pipe near Curtis Road.

And as much as 2 million gallons may have contaminated a half-square-mile portion of western Boise.

Chevron officials had been aware of an underground fuel spill in the area since January, but Thursday's disclosure was the first time the company had identified a cause or estimated the amount of fuel involved.

Boise Fire Chief John Boros, who was told of the extent of the spill on Thursday, said he did not believe the spill poses a safety hazard to the contaminated area. However, Boros said he has tripled the amount of foam on hand that could be used to fight a petroleum fire.

Gasoline fumes had been detected this week in the basement of West Junior High School on Curtis Road, but Boros said, "It's not anything of any consequence at all. It's not of any danger."

Olmstead, Batt swipe at governor in debate

MOSCOW (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial candidates Phil Batt and Ralph Olmstead unseathed their debating swords Thursday night, but they spent most of the time swinging at incumbent Democratic Gov. John Evans.

Olmstead, Idaho's House speaker from Twin Falls, and Batt, the lieutenant governor from Wilder, displayed few differences during their debate — both expressing support for the Reagan economic program and criticizing Evans' performance.

About 100 people attended the 25-minute debate, which was sponsored by the University of Idaho College Republicans and held on the Moscow campus.

In his opening statement, Batt told the crowd the state needs a new governor for three reasons: To help heal the economy, to lessen conflict between the governor and the legislature, and to have someone in the position who is in tune with President Reagan's New Federalism.

"I will furnish strong leadership in helping Idaho solve Idaho's problems," Batt said.

Olmstead also said the state needs a governor in step with the Reagan program, adding, "I'm ready for the job."

The candidates agreed that higher education is a high priority in Idaho, that surplus public lands could be sold, and that there might be some merit to the idea of investing state funds in the housing industry to stimulate building.

Despite the similarity in their answers, Olmstead said Republicans in Idaho "are lucky to have a choice for governor, and there is a clear-cut choice. There is only one candidate who is truly for lean and responsive government, and I am that candidate."

Batt said Idahoans "need a leader who will realize there's not always a pat answer to all problems." He said he was the candidate who would make the best decisions for Idaho as governor.

Olmstead supported by Ravenscroft

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho leader of the Sagebrush Rebellion threw his support Friday behind Republican gubernatorial candidate Ralph Olmstead.

Vernon Ravenscroft, a Tuttle resident who is president of Sagebrush Rebellion, Inc., said he was supporting Olmstead in the May 25 primary election because the House speaker from Twin Falls "makes the tough decisions" and is "more economically oriented compared to the other candidates."

Olmstead will face U. Gov. Phil Batt in the GOP runoff later this month. The winner of that contest will meet incumbent Democratic Gov. John Evans in November.

Ravenscroft himself has a long history of political involvement. He ran for governor in 1976, but lost in the Republican primary. In 1978 he also sought the gubernatorial post, but was defeated by Democrat Cecil Andrus. And in 1974 he ran for lieutenant governor against Evans and also was defeated.

Williams says county prosecutors support campaign

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General candidate J.D. Williams said Friday his campaign has the support of 18 current and 14 former county prosecutors across Idaho.

At a news conference in the State Capitol, Williams — a Democrat who is the prosecutor for Franklin County — said the list of supporters includes four current or former prosecutors who are Republicans.

He identified these GOP supporters as prosecutors Clayton Anderson of Owyhee County and Mark Beebe of Power County, and former prosecutors Roy Mosman of Nez-Perce County and Larry Walker of Washington County.

The present Nez Perce prosecutor, Gordon Petrie, also announced formation of a "Prosecutors for Williams" organization aimed at helping the Democrat beat Republican Ada County Prosecutor Jim Harris this November.

Petrie presented a list of supporters which included 18 present and 14 former prosecutors from many of the state's 44 counties.

New acne treatment successful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A still experimental drug found "unbelievably successful" in treating severe acne holds down the guilty bacteria long after the drug's use has been discontinued, a researcher reported Friday.

Dr. James Leyden of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine said the drug, a vitamin A derivative called 13-cis-retinoic acid, is expected to be approved by the Food and Drug Administration later this year for use in patients with very severe acne — about 5 percent of all acne patients.

Carolyn Glynn, a spokeswoman for Hoffmann-La Roche Inc., which calls the drug Accutane, said Food and Drug Administration approval is expected by late summer or early fall. She said an estimated 350,000 to 400,000 Americans will be eligible for the drug.

Leyden said about 500 people have been treated with the drug so far in the United States. Their acne was so severe that some considered suicide. "All of these people who have been treated, with very few exceptions, have had either a prolonged remission or an actual cure," Leyden said. Some of his patients, he said, are still clear of acne after three or four years.

He said several forms of the compound have been tested, and that the one likely to be released within the next couple of months "has been found to be unbelievably successful in the treatment of acne."

Leyden said it is not known how the drug works, but his report to a meeting of the Society for Investigative Dermatology said the drug suppresses activity of the sebaceous gland, the oil-producing gland of the skin that is central to acne.

The gland makes less and less oil as the drug is being taken orally.

With this decrease in oil production is a dramatic decrease in the number of Propionibacterium acnes, the bacterium that produces inflammation in the sebaceous follicles.

When the drug treatment is discontinued after four or five months, the gland again begins producing the skin oil. But Leyden said the bacteria do not return.

"The surprising thing is that the bacteria, P. acnes, stay down," he said at a news conference.

Mower safety to be enforced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission voted unanimously Friday to enforce new lawnmower safety regulations next month in an effort to prevent serious injuries to an estimated 77,000 people this year.

On a 5-0 vote, the commission dismissed a petition by Toro Co., the financially troubled lawnmower manufacturing firm, to delay enforcing new safety regulations. The rules will take effect June 30.

Commission Chairman Nancy Harvey Steorts estimated that unprotected lawnmower blades would injure up to 25,000 more people over the next 12 years unless the safety rules are enforced.

"I am primarily concerned with the increased number of blind contact injuries to mower operators that can be expected if the standard is extended," said Ms. Steorts.

What's what

Q. There have never been as many tribes where each woman had more than one husband as tribes where each man had more than one wife. Why?

A. That's a numbers game. The young males were more likely to get killed off early, leaving a surplus of females.

No place on earth appeals more as a honeymoon resort to Japan's young marrieds now than Hawaii's Pearl Harbor.

Freeways are safer statistically than side streets.

LONG ENGAGEMENT

Poets are thought to be an impetuous lot. But our Love and War man cites Alfred Lord Tennyson as the exception. He was engaged to Emily Sellwood for 14 years before they finally married. Nothing wrong with that, maybe, for the day. It's a matter of record, however, that long long engagements produce as few happy marriages as short short engagements.

Big-city police in the People's Republic of China assign one person on each block to serve as snitch, stool pigeon, informer, whatever you want to call it.

Q. How long does perfume in the bottle last?

A. Unopened, 10 years or so. Opened, two years.

Will you buy the report that the CIA once tried to assassinate Cuba's Fidel Castro by attempting to get him to play catch with an exploding baseball? The claim appears in that highly respected journal, "The New Republic."

Asner blasts CBS, 'yahoos'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actor Ed Asner Friday accused CBS of bowing to pressure from "schoonks" and "yahoos" like the Rev. Jerry Falwell in canceling the "Lou Grant" show. But the Moral Majority leader said he was a fan of Asner's and liked the program. A spokesman for CBS said low ratings were responsible for the cancellation of the hour-long dramatic TV series after five years and denied the actor's outspoken political views had any bearing on the issue. Asner, attending the Denver Film Festival, said in a telephone interview, "I think the network raced to give the cancellation was not political. Well, I regret their lack of support and their haste to cancel the show. "It allows the Jerry Falwells, the Klenex people and the Caucus of Conservative Consumers to think they can curb freedom of speech at will." Asner's reference to Klenex was a slap at the Wisconsin-based Kimberly-Clark Corp., which announced earlier this week it would no longer sponsor "Lou Grant" because of Asner's announcement earlier this year that he planned to raise $1 million for medical aid to be distributed by leftist forces in El Salvador. "I think the ratings went down this year for a number of reasons — great Monday night football, big counter-programming, a lot of pre-emptions and the drift to cable from commercial TV, which has hurt CBS," Asner said. "With that attrition and these yahoos beginning to carp, you'd think it would behoove the network to exercise a little effort in trying to save the show." Falwell, however, said neither he nor the Moral Majority were to blame for cancellation of the series. "Although I disagree with Ed Asner's politics, I believe him to be an outstanding actor—I personally watched and enjoyed the show," Grant said. "I have absolutely nothing to do with the cancellation of the series." Falwell speculated that Asner, in making the comments, may have been "simply shooting from the hip in desperation." Asner, who won several Emmys for his portrayal of a tough city editor on the show, said the controversy affected some "minds and souls" of CBS executives who did nothing to save the series. "The affect of the schoonks is minimal but they will go about crowing over the fact that they achieved what they set out to do, I say for shame that the network would let them do that." But Mike Buchanan, CBS public relations vice-president, blamed the cancellation on lower Nielsen ratings.

Two-man police force will get second gun

LANESBORO, Minn. (UPI)—Police Chief Jack Munns is getting another six-shooter for the one-gun, two-man police force and it didn't cost the town of 925 population any money. Last month, the City Council turned down a request by Munns for another revolver, saying it didn't have $235 to buy another .357 Magnum. City fathers told the chief to share his .357 Magnum with Officer Tom Smith, since it was rare both were on duty at the same time, just as they both use the town's one patrol car. After news stories circulated across the nation about the one-gun town, Munns received offers for a new civic league from several sources, including the North Las Vegas News, Police Department and the son of the former police chief at Lanesboro, who said he would lend Munns a gun.

Munns decided to accept a new .357 Magnum donated by Storm Ruger Co., a gun manufacturer in Southport, Conn. He mailed a letter Thursday thanking the firm "for their concern in seeing that he city of Lanesboro is no longer a one-gun town." Munns has been carrying his own gun while Smith uses the city revolver. But he complained his .38-caliber weapon did not pack enough power and was quoted in a local newspaper as saying, "I was about as effective as a handful of rocks." Munns said he knew he'd take some grief for the comment, so when he walks into coffee shops these days he has five rocks in his jacket pocket ready to lay down if the citizenry when they rib him about it. As for the new .357 Magnum, Munns said, "I hope I never have to use it."

Mothers will receive ultimate gift

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Two young Bermuda fishermen missing and presumed drowned for nine days in the north Atlantic will be reunited with their mothers on Mother's Day — on Bourbon Street.

The men, whose boat was blown off course near Bermuda April 27, were picked up by a Norwegian freighter heading for New Orleans.

When the good news reached Bermuda, the government decided to spring for air fare and the employer of both men's parents decided to host mothers and sons in the French Quarter.

"We were asked to pick the young men up and look after them," said Hans U. Wandfluh, general manager of the Royal Sonesta Hotel. "Since this is such a happy story, we said of course."

"The Bermudan government decided it would be a fantastic thing to fly the mothers here, as the ultimate Mother's Day gift. It obviously has to be. What else can a mother get that would be any greater than getting her lost son back?"

Sonesta International felt a special closeness to Dale Abbott, 23, and Ricky Outerbridge, 21, Wandfluh said. One man's mother recently retired after 20 years as a housekeeper at the company's Bermuda hotel, and the other's father serves as assistant maitre d'.

Abbott and Outerbridge went fishing April 26 and look after them," missing in rough seas. Air searches, aided by planes from the American naval station in Bermuda, turned up no sign of the fishing boat.

On May 4 the Norwegian freighter Viva reported sighting a fishing boat 85 miles west of the island. The crew launched a lifeboat and found the two men, who had survived by drinking rainwater and catching fish. "After the families had adjusted to the fact that they had died, they received this wonderful news," Wandfluh said. "They'll be given VIP treatment all the way, as they have obviously survived a tough ordeal."

Britain prepares for invasion as hopes for peace weaken

LONDON (UPI) — Britain, seeing little hope of a successful intervention by the United Nations, has begun laying the final diplomatic groundwork for a military counter-invasion of the Falkland Islands.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher saw the collapse of a U.S.-Peruvian peace plan as the end of the most promising hope for a cease-fire in the war with Argentina, government officials said.

They said the U.N. peace plan proposed by Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar was "too vague" to be really meaningful as it stood.

Foreign Secretary Francis Pym, in a speech to parliament that emphasized British determination to recapture the islands by force if necessary, served notice that Britain now believed Argentina could not be brought to the negotiating table by any third party. In particular, British government officials believe Argentina will never withdraw its troops from the Falklands as part of the pre-negotiation process and will not discuss sovereignty at any stage.

Now all the indications are that Britain is preparing to escalate the military battle one notch further.

Yet a counter-invasion was being seen as unlikely in the next few days. Political analysts said Mrs. Thatcher wanted to make sure all diplomatic avenues were explored before more force was used. Military analysts said by the middle of next week, Britain's task force off the islands could be considerably strengthened by the arrival of 20 new Harrier warplanes and a 3,000-man troop ship.

However, Pym made it clear Britain might now bomb Argentina's mainland airbases to prevent its fighter-bombers from mounting raids similar to the one which blasted the destroyer HMS Sheffield.

NATO sources in Brussels said Britain had asked the United States for the loan of KC-135A strategic tanker aircraft for inflight refueling.

This not only would enable Britain to keep a 24-hour AWACS plane, known as a Nimrod, over the combat zone, but also allow Vulcan bombers from Ascension Island to reach Argentine mainland targets.

China points to 'obstacles'

PEKING (UPI) — Vice President George Bush had a tough round of talks Friday with Chinese officials who warned him that U.S. arms sales to Taiwan posed "serious obstacles" to Sino-American relations.

Greeted by about 200 Chinese schoolchildren waving garlands and bouquets of flowers on banner-draped Tiananmen Square, Bush went to Peking's Savoy Hotel to meet with the People and gave Vice Premier Wan Li a letter from President Reagan for Communist Party leader Hu Yaobang.

The contents of the letter were not disclosed, but Chinese sources said it reaffirmed U.S. policy of recognizing only one China with its capital in Peking.

Before a two-hour meeting with Bush, Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua told the vice president they would first discuss "matters of bilateral relations in which there are serious obstacles."

Later at a state banquet, Premier Zhao Ziyang echoed Hua's remarks.

"We both recognize that there exist serious obstacles in the present Sino-U.S. relations," Zhao said in a toast. "This is no doubt an important visit."

U.S.-China relations have been strained since the Reagan administration asked Congress to approve a $50 million military spare parts sale to Taiwan, a former Chinese province that Peking claims is still Chinese territory.

Taiwan was founded "as the Republic of China in 1949 by Nationalist Chinese fleeing the Communist takeover in Peking. It was an American ally until 1979, when Washington established diplomatic relations with Communist China."

"We respect China's sovereignty and territorial integrity," said Bush in a banquet toast attempting to dispel Peking's fears President Reagan has adopted a "two-China" policy.

Polish unrest mounts

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Four top underground Solidarity leaders warned Friday an explosion of unrest could overwhelm the nation if mounting anger among workers is ignored by martial law authorities.

In the clandestine weekly "Tygodnik Mazowiecki," circulated Friday, the fugitive unionists called for immediate talks between the government and the suspended independent trade union.

Waldyslaw Hardek, of Krakow, warned that "there are conspiracy groups operating in top secrecy in Krakow province."

Police continue search for parents of baby girl left under statue of Jesus

BYSTEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Mystery continues to surround the identity of the baby girl who was found abandoned at St. Edward's Catholic Church on Thursday morning.

Twin Falls police continue their search for the child's parents, and officers are following up "two to three solid leads," police Chief Tim Qualls said Friday afternoon.

The 6- to 8-month-old baby with the big blue eyes remains in foster care under the custody of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare. According to Jess Garrett, the department's child-protection supervisor, the baby is cheerful and happy.

"She's the most contented child I've ever seen," Garrett said.

No one has contacted the police to either claim the baby or indicate they know who she is. Garrett said the DHW received one call from a person who believed he knew the identity of the child, but an investigation proved otherwise.

The possibility that the child was kidnapped has not been ruled out. "We've not ruled out anything," said police Lt. Pat Bermingham. However, no kidnappings that match this child have been reported, he said.

"We do have some good leads from Thursday morning we are following up on," Qualls said. He would not comment further.

A description of the child has been sent by teletype to law-enforcement agencies around the country. The DHW has contacted an official in the agency's Boise office who will prepare flyers to be distributed to the nation's child-protection agencies.

The plastic sack of clothes left with the child has yielded some information. A container of talcum powder apparently came from a "Rally" pharmacy, and there are such pharmacies in Idaho, according to Qualls.

Store tags on some of the clothes indicated they were made in West Germany. The brand name of "Bibi" was found on at least two tags and also was embroidered on one of the sleepers. The tags bore washing instructions in German, French and English.

Bermingham said police have contacted social-services agencies, such as the Salvation Army and the Women's Crisis Center, that might have an indication of who the parents of the child are, but to no avail.

He said persons who think they have any information on the baby should call police at 733-0860, even if they are unsure of their information.

"It would give us some place to start. Now, we don't have any where to start."

Block grants

Public input sought to get project ideas

TWIN FALLS — Proposals for federally funded community development projects will be accepted by Twin Falls City Council on Monday, May 17.

The city has until June 1 to apply for $50,000 available under a federal block-grant program, which is designed to foster economic development and to benefit low- and moderate-income neighborhoods. Under the recent reorganization of the block-grant program, the federal dollars now are administered by the state.

In Twin Falls, members of the city staff have recommended the money be used to improve portions of the western "presidential" streets. The work would include aligning Adams Street with Shoup Avenue, covering a hazardous-irrigation-canal-near-that intersection and installing sidewalks in a few areas of the western block of streets.

In addition to the $350,000 grant, the project would require about $15,000 in city money and the services of the city engineer and other staff members, according to LaMar Orton, the Twin Falls community development director. The estimated cost of the in-house services is $30,000.

Persons who want to present additional grant proposals will have the opportunity to do so at the council meeting.

The state's Division of Economic and Community Affairs has received 53 letters from local governments intending to apply for grants, Orton says, and it appears that a maximum of 10 applicants will be awarded funds.

Orton says Twin Falls has participated in federal block-grant programs since 1975. Over the years, the grants have been used for sidewalks in South Park, and for the reconstruction of Second and Fourth avenues west and portions of Oak and Russell streets. The city also has used grant money to buy-unlivable houses, which then were destroyed, and to fund a limited-number-of-sewer-line installations in low-income neighborhoods.

Chamber may back IFF views

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Frozen Foods may gain an ally in the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce over efforts to solve its waste-water treatment problems.

The Twin Falls potato processor has been embroiled in a dispute about the amount of waste that should be treated at the city's sewage plant. Also, IFF's effort to solve the problem by building its own sewage treatment plant is opposed by a group of home-owners who live on the Snake River Canyon rim above the site where the company proposes to put the plant.

In its monthly newsletter, mailed this week, the chamber told members the local economy would be crippled if IFF cannot solve its sewage problems, because that could force the company out of business.

The newsletter invited chamber members to a Tuesday, May 18, luncheon where IFF President Leo Odenwald will explain the problems the company faces and what it has tried to do to solve them.

Mike Dolton, the executive director of the chamber, said the chamber will probably take an official stand on the controversy surrounding IFF after that meeting. He anticipates the group will support the company.

"We're with you, Idaho Frozen," Dolton said. "We can't afford to lose you."

Youths get their day in court

Mock trial teaches law to students

BySTEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — High school students in Twin Falls received a live lesson in the law Friday — its restrictions, its language and its often times snail's pace.

From 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. the students watched as a certain "Cathy Evans" was charged, tried and convicted of selling four ounces of marijuana.

Despite the theatrics of her lawyer, who attempted to prove she was a victim of entrapment, Evans was found guilty by a jury of her peers.

The mock trial, which featured real-life lawyers Thomas High and Kristina Belto and magistrate Judge Charles Brumbach, attempted to give high school students insight into the criminal-justice system.

Students from Brent Buckner's drama class played the parts of the defendant, witnesses, court clerk and bailiff.

High, who devised the scenario used in the drama, said the action was "as close to a real trial as we can get," down to the painstaking details involved with jury selection and the judge's instructions.

However, audience participation in O'Leary Junior High School's auditorium gave the proceedings a flavor not found in Judge Brumbach's court. Boos, cheers, groans and applause followed testimony. At times, the trial seemed like a cross between a Perry Mason script and a football game.

Yet, judging from the questions asked of High after the trial concluded, most students followed the action with keen interest.

Early Friday morning, high-school seniors were called to the junior-high school to "report" for jury duty. High, as defense attorney, and Belto, as the prosecutor, took their roles seriously and closely questioned potential jurors about possible biases.

High was a trifle disconcerted when he asked, "Do you know the defendant?" and all 12 potential jurors nodded. The question "Do you know any users of marijuana?" got a "no" from a juror and a rise out of the audience.

Jury selection, a long, tedious process, was unfamiliar to many of the students, since it's something usually eliminated from television dramas. Eventually, 12 jurors were chosen and charges in the State of Idaho vs. Evans were read.

Cathy Evans, played by Karen Pettigill, was accused of selling marijuana to Mary Ann Reynolds, played by Ruth Ann McNeess. Reynolds, who had been arrested by Twin Falls police Officer John Williams, played by Brendan Huggins, had fingered Evans in return for immunity from prosecution.

High insisted Evans had procured the marijuana for Reynolds only to help out her best friend. Belto maintained that Evans regularly supplied Reynolds with dope and was not her "best friend."

The marijuana (grass clippings) and the $400 (in paper money) used to buy the dope was introduced as evidence.

Testimony was taken from Evans' brother, Mike, played by Kevin Labrum, who electrified the audience when he said even though he warned his sister about Reynolds

"because I think Mary Ann is scum."

The students, given only a police statement on their roles, created the personalities of the characters themselves.

Huggins, as a stone-faced police officer, came in for some special treatment by High, who disparaged the traffic cop's "one month and 12 days" worth of writing tickets.

A gum-chewing Reynolds admitted under cross-examination that she'd been busted twice before, and she winced at High's description of her as a "proverbial three-time loser."

Belto, in her turn, hammered at Evans' statements that she bought the dope only after Reynolds begged her. Brother Mike's credibility was questioned severely.

High, whose theatrical manner first endeared him to the crowd, found the audience turning against his client in the face of Belto's implacable logic. The jury took only a few minutes to declare Evans guilty.

High took it well. "Once again, justice denied," he sighed.

President Taylor wins ovation

400 granted degrees at CSI

By GLEN WARCHOL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In his opening remarks at the College of Southern Idaho's commencement Friday evening, LeRoy Craig, the chairman of the board of trustees, commented on the perennial hope evident in the spring weather and the faces of the 400 graduates sitting before him.

But each student personally received proof of spring's hope and renewal in a firm handshake from CSI President James "Doc" Taylor, as they stepped up to receive their diplomas.

After a warm introduction by Craig, Taylor, who was seriously ill for the first months of the year, basked in a standing ovation from the graduates and their families.

"That's a bit unusual to have a board chairman give you accolades," Taylor joked. "It's generally in a different role."

Taylor seemed himself again as he joked while introducing the commencement speaker, Larry G. Selland, the administrator for the State Board for Vocational Education.

In his address, Selland said that "commencement" used to be a term that confused people who saw the ceremony as an end of the educational process.

"Education is not a task to be completed," he said, "but rather a process to be continued."

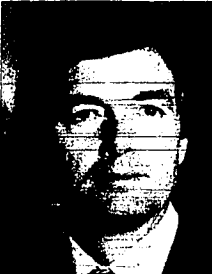

At the commencement ceremonies, 181 academic and 266 vocational degrees were granted in fields of study ranging from welding to practical nursing. About 20 more students graduated this year than did in 1981.

Most graduates were from Jerome and Twin Falls counties, but others came from as far away as Japan and Saudi Arabia.

Dean's car collided with the vehicle driven by the juvenile last Sunday morning, Timothy Joseph Bruce, 17, of Burley, a passenger with the juvenile, died at the scene as the result of massive head and neck injuries, he said.

Dean was charged with driving while intoxicated because officers smelled alcohol at the scene, Bywater said. Dean also failed the dexterity test, but subsequent evidence revealed she probably was in shock at the time, and that may have caused her to fail the test.

A large amount of alcohol was found in the juvenile's vehicle, Bywater said. The juvenile, whose name has not been released by authorities because of his age, allegedly was speeding and failed to yield.

Scuffle injures officers

BUHL — A Twin-Falls County deputy and a Buhl police officer were injured Thursday night in a scuffle west of Buhl.

According to Sheriff Jim Munn: Deputies, aided by Buhl police, were investigating a bonfire party in the desert west of Buhl at about 11 p.m. Sparks from the fire were presenting a hazard to the surrounding brush, and the group of people present were told to reduce the size of the bonfire.

Instead, Kurt Cantrell of Buhl allegedly threw a beam from a nearby highway barrier, which he had removed earlier, back on the fire.

Officers arrested Cantrell, and a struggle followed in which Deputy Robert Gauthier suffered a dislocated shoulder and Buhl Cpl. Ron Romero injured his back. Both officers were treated and released at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Cantrell has been charged with resisting arrest, malicious destruction of property and disorderly conduct. He was released Friday on $1,800 bond.

Burley fatality triggers manslaughter charge

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — A misdemeanor voluntary manslaughter charge has been filed against a 16-year-old Burley teenager in connection with last Sunday's two-car accident in which another Burley youth died.

A misdemeanor manslaughter charge is defined as a homicide committed as the result of an unlawful act, with gross negligence.

On Thursday, a driving-while-intoxicated charge was dropped for insufficient evidence against Marilyn Dean, 25, of Burley, who also was involved in the accident, according to Steve Bywater, the Cassia County assistant prosecutor.

Dean's car collided with the vehicle driven by the juvenile last Sunday morning, Timothy Joseph Bruce, 17, of Burley, a passenger with the juvenile, died at the scene as the result of massive head and neck injuries, he said.

Dean was charged with driving while intoxicated because officers smelled alcohol at the scene, Bywater said.

3 charged with antelope kill

TWIN FALLS — Three men, charged Thursday with possessing out-of-season antelope in the desert west of Rogerson, were arraigned Friday in Fifth District Magistrate Court.

Jose Alejandro Penn-Leyva, 33, a resident alien, pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of an antelope taken big game. Jose Irenio Lizarralde-Berzales, 32, and Selerio Casabla Lopez, 25, both illegal aliens, pleaded innocent to the charge.

Following the disposition of their cases in magistrate court, the illegal aliens will be turned over to the U.S. Border Patrol to face deportation proceedings.

All three men are being held in the county jail in lieu of $725 bond each.

Symms to answer ag queries

WASHINGTON — Sen. Steve Symms will answer questions about agriculture Tuesday from callers using a toll-free phone line.

The number to call is 1-800-368-5769. Symms will answer questions between 2 and 2:30 p.m.

The senator's half-hour is part of a 12-hour program from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., sponsored by the Agriculture Council of America, to gather information about the problems and concerns of U.S. farmers.

In all, 10 farmers, congressmen and businessmen are scheduled to answer questions on toll-free line.

In conjunction with the telephone questions, the Agriculture Council also is asking that all concerned individuals fill out a survey it is distributing. Copies of the survey are available from Sen. Symms' office in Twin Falls.

Burglars hit Salvation Army

TWIN FALLS — Police are investigating back-to-back burglaries of the Twin Falls Salvation Army Corps office, 801 Second Ave. N.

Although the first burglary did not result in any major loss, the second incident cost the Salvation Army an estimated $552 in merchandise, Twin Falls police say.

Chief Tim Qualls said his department is investigating any possible connection between the two burglaries.

Salvation Army representatives first reported a burglary Tuesday, saying someone broke into the facility between 6 p.m. Monday and 8:45 a.m. Tuesday. All that was reported missing from that burglary was about 50 cents in change. But the break-in caused an estimated $50 damage to the structure.

Wednesday, police received word of a second burglary at the office. That time, someone entered the building between 9 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday, and removed stereo equipment and an electric guitar.

An additional $100 worth of damage to the building was reported as a result of the second burglary, police said.

Jarbridge wood needs permit

BUHL — Firewood cutters must obtain a permit to collect wood on national forest lands in the Jarbridge area, beginning this summer.

A fee of $2 a cord, with a minimum of $5, will be charged for cutting in the more accessible areas, says Jim Percy, the Jarbridge District ranger for the Humboldt National Forest.

Free-use permits also may be obtained for firewood from less desirable areas. Families can receive up to 10 cords of wood under either type of permit, Percy says.

Permits are available from the Jarbridge District office in Buhl, and they will be available from the Pole Creek and Mahoney ranger stations after July 1, he says. Regular compliance checks will be made throughout the summer.

Fees for firewood also are being charged for the Sawtooth and Boise national forests.

Knife-wielding man holds officers at bay

TWIN FALLS — Cool heads prevailed Friday night when area police officers faced a man armed with a knife.

Loren Ray Flournoy, 24, of 269 Heyburn Ave., Twin Falls, held police at bay for just over an hour. According to witnesses, the man was armed with a butcher knife.

Finally, by 10:30 p.m., state and county city officers — several clad in body armor — were able to talk Flournoy down from the second floor of his small Heyburn Avenue house.

According to Twin Falls police

Chief Tim Qualls, the incident was the result of a family disturbance. Flournoy has been charged with disorderly conduct by resisting arrest, Qualls said.

Alcohol past gets burglar probation

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man with a record of alcohol-related arrests was given another chance Friday in Fifth District Court.

Judge Theron Ward suspended a prison sentence of two to five years for Juan Edward Jimenez, 22, 198 Maple St., and put him on a one-year probation.

Jimenez was charged with second-degree burglary in connection with a March 12 break-in at Canyon Motors Subaru, 363 Second Ave. S., Twin Falls.

Ward stipulated that Jimenez, who has undergone treatment at the Nampa Alcohol Treatment Program, continue his alcohol-abuse counseling, attend Alcoholics Anonymous meetings and avoid bars. Jimenez has a record of arrests for driving while intoxicated and possession of a concealed weapon while in a tavern.

Prosecutor Harry Dehan asked that part of the condition of the probation be that Jimenez avoid his former friends.

Burglar nets sentence at Cottonwood

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man pleaded innocent Friday in Fifth District Court to a March burglary — then was sentenced to the North Idaho Correctional Institute at Cottonwood for another one.

Judge Theron Ward sentenced Michael Anthony, 19, 157 Main Ave., to 120 days at Cottonwood for breaking into a pickup truck and stealing two shotguns in November. Anthony was arrested after police followed his tracks through fresh snow to a nearby mobile-home court.

Citing a past history of incorrigibility and brushes with the law, including the pending first-degree burglary charge, Prosecutor Harry Dehan had recommended that Anthony be given a two to five-year sentence in the state penitentiary to "get his attention."

On March 5, Anthony was charged with breaking into a pickup truck parked at the Beacon Club bar, Second Avenue East, Twin Falls.

Bliss council votes not to sell beer at races

BLISS — Discussion of the possibility of raising revenue for the city by selling beer at local motorcross races highlighted action Wednesday night at Bliss City Council.

Councilman Ed Conrass said that Bliss makes a substantial profit selling beer at its track.

However, council unanimously decided not to sell the beer because the Bliss races are attended by many families and beer drinking, although permitted, should not be promoted.

The races, held throughout the summer, will begin Sunday, May 16, at the track, which is located a mile west of Bliss.

According to Sam Bishop, the council president, registration will begin at "the invigorating time" of 7 a.m., with one-mile races to start at 8:30. Classes are divided according to cycle size and rider ability.

Council also learned from Mayor Roland Zollinger that instead of buying flags for the race at an estimated cost of $300, he and several citizens purchased material for $12 and made new flags on their own.

Pope John Paul II travels to Portugal on Wednesday

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II, on his second trip abroad, since recovering from an assassination attempt, will visit the shrine at Fatima this Thursday to thank the Virgin Mary for saving his life exactly one year ago.
 The stop at Fatima highlights a four-day swing through Portugal that begins Wednesday and will cover 3,000 miles. Vatican officials say his travels bear testimony to the success of the pope's recovery.
 John Paul II devoted to the Blessed Virgin. Close aides say he believes Mary saved his life on the afternoon of May 13, 1981, when Turkish terrorist Mehmet Ali Agca shot and critically wounded him in St. Peter's Square.

Our church news guidelines

The Times-News encourages any church in the Magic Valley area to submit information for our listing of church services, which appears each Saturday.

- To ensure your information is used, follow these guidelines:
  - The deadline for church news is Thursday noon.
  - Typewritten or plainly printed information is best; it helps eliminate errors.
  - Provide full information — complete names, times, locations, day and date. Include the name of the community — we serve many — and a phone number to call if more information is needed.
  - If you have questions about church news, call 733-0931 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., and ask for Glenda May or Jon Kimmy.

Lewiston weather office to close;
Twin Falls station could be next

BOISE (UPI) — The National Weather Service station at Lewiston has fallen prey to federal budget cuts, hit with an order to shut down June 20, and agency officials said Friday the Twin Falls bureau may be the next victim.

The Lewiston station, which provides weather information for local residents and pilots in north-central Idaho and a chunk of eastern Washington, is one of 20 similar offices across the nation that face closure due to elimination of funding near the end of the federal fiscal year.

Four higher-grade Weather Service forecasting offices also are slated for shutdown throughout the nation, but the one in Boise has eluded termination, said Chris Hill, the deputy meteorologist in charge at the Boise office.

The offices in Pocatello and Boise appear to be safe from cuts for the time being, but the Twin Falls office may be closed sometime in the upcoming federal fiscal year, which begins in October, according to Hill.

He said the administration's proposed budget calls for the elimination of the agricultural forecasting program in Idaho. Much of that program is conducted by the Twin Falls station.

In the heart of the farming-rich Magic Valley and a center for agriculture in southern Idaho.

The possible closing of the Twin Falls station, located at Kimberly, had been reported earlier by The Times-News.

Hill said there was little chance the Lewiston office could be reinstated before the June 20 closure deadline, which was delivered Thursday from National Weather Service.

Work begins on reinforcing dangerous dam

MOUNTAIN HOME (UPI) — Repair crews, under the supervision of Idaho Water Resources Department inspectors, began to shore up a leaky earthen dam Friday, which state officials said remained in danger of collapsing above an inlet of Anderson Ranch Reservoir.

The owner of the 5-year-old dam, Robert Rhead of Meridian, and his contractor brought earth-moving machinery to the 37-foot-high dam about 20 miles northeast of Mountain Home to pile rocks and other filling material into a slumping section, said Dave Hollingshead, the chief of dam safety for the state.

The "counter berm" mass was being placed in a section of the dam's downstream face that has been losing material for several weeks, Hollingshead said.

The official said that until a detailed engineering study can be conducted, it won't be known whether the dam can be adequately repaired or whether it will have to be taken down because of internal instability.

Rhead was told earlier this week to repair the dam, or tear it down and to eliminate water storage for the time being.

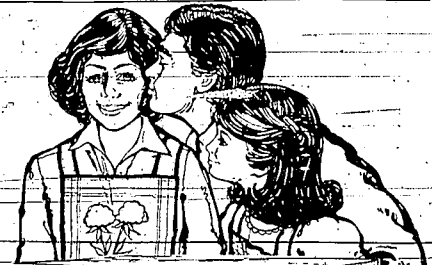

"I don't think he shared our concern, initially, but now this man is under orders to either fix it or breach it," Hollingshead said.

Rhead can keep the dam only if he hires a consultant and conducts repairs to satisfy state inspectors of the structure's safety, Hollingshead said.

Thursday, the state warned recreationists to stay out of the potential flood path of the irrigation dam, situated about one mile above the southeast inlet of Anderson Ranch Reservoir. The inlet and the area above it along Little Camas Creek are a popular fishing and camping area.

Stocks soar to 3-month high

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks, buoyed by hopes a new federal budget proposal would succeed and the recession was near a bottom, climbed to a three-month high Friday.

Trading was heavy trading despite late profit taking.

Oil, which has taken a drubbing since 1981, continued to show strength because of the growing belief the worldwide oil glut is about to end and prices are likely to climb.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had risen 9 points by midsession following Thursday's 8.75 advance, managed to gain 6 to 869.20, the highest level since it hit 871.10 on Jan. 29.

The closely watched average gained 20.84 points for the week and has risen 73.73 points since hitting a two-year low of 755.47 on March 8.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose to 45 to 68.76 and the price of 100 average share increased 16 cents.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index jumped 0.79 to 119.47. Advances topped declines 943-554 among the 1,899 issues listed.

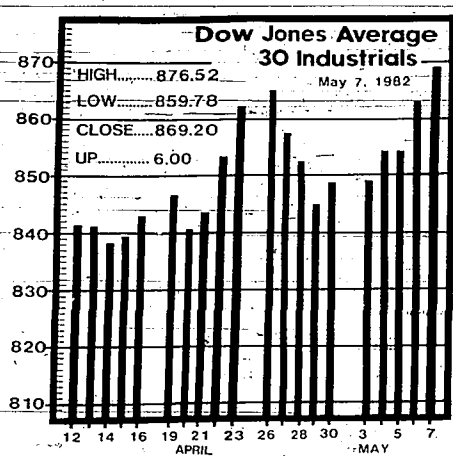

Big Board volume totaled 67,130,000 shares compared with 67,540,000 traded in Thursday's busy session.

For the second consecutive session, Wall Street took a positive view of the new Republican budget plan to slice the 1983 deficit, trim certain Social Security payments and increase revenues with certain tax increases.

Federal funds rates bank charge one another for overnight loans dropped substantially prior to the Fed report and could go even lower in the wake of the latest money report.

Composite volume of NYSE issues, as listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 78,356,738 shares compared with 78,416,390 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 4.05 to 275.97 and the price of failed over the past couple of years to acquire Conoco and Marathon Oil.

Reserve Petroleum dropped 1 1/2 to 19 1/2 in active trading following reports the company and its chairman, Robert West, are under a federal grand jury investigation to determine if they made illegal payments to an official of the Bolivian state oil company and other foreign individuals.

Mesabi Trust surrendered 1 to 9.

The trust said it expected a sharp decline in royalties because of downward revisions in Reserve Mining Co.'s production targets.

Heinrich & Payne, which gained 1 1/2 points Thursday after reporting a gas "discovery" in Oklahoma's Anadarko Basin, tacked on 2 1/2 to 23 1/2.

Corporation rose 1 1/2 to 15 1/2 after the company reported a $2.3 million second-quarter net vs. a $1.1 million loss a year ago.

Chicago Pneumatic, which said it broke even in first quarter operations, jumped 2 1/2 to 16 1/2. The company said it could not explain the activity in its stock.

United Technologies, which won $22 million worth of Air Force and Navy parts contracts, jumped 1 1/2 to 39 1/2 in trading that included a block of 100,000 shares at 40.

Tiger International rose 1 to 10 1/2.

Saul Steinberg, Bellanca Group Chairman, told the SEC he may try to gain control of Tiger and wage a fight to unseat its directors.

On the Amex, Dome Petroleum was the most active issue, up 1/4 to 7 1/2.

Chairman told the SEC he may try to gain control of Tiger and wage a fight to unseat its directors.

Money supply pressure off

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's basic money supply known as M1 plunged $4.9 billion in the latest reporting week, "not yet the big washout," but a large enough drop to relieve upward pressure on interest rates.

The drop had little immediate impact on government bonds.

The newest Treasury 30-year bond, the 14 1/2 of 2011, closed at 106 1/2, the same as Thursday.

M1, comprised of cash, checking accounts and NOW accounts, was a seasonally adjusted average of $449.5 billion in the week ending April 28 from $454.4 billion the previous week. For the latest four weeks M1 averaged a 3.7 percent rate of gain in the statistical quarter.

Life expectancy lengthens

NEW YORK (UPI)—The lifespan and life-expectancy of Americans improved again in 1981 and infant mortality declined to a new low, the statistical bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. said.

Life expectancy at birth of all Americans reached 74.1 years up from 73.8 years a year earlier.

The 1981 life expectancy at birth was 70.3 years for males and 77.9 years for females.

Jury: NFL violated antitrust laws

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An all-woman jury decided Friday the NFL violated federal antitrust laws by refusing to allow the Oakland Raiders to move to Southern California, a decision that could have a profound impact on pro football.

After 21 days of testimony and millions of dollars in attorneys' fees, the fate of the Raiders and NFL fell into the hands of a jury comprised of two bank workers, two housewives, a retired secretary and a postal clerk.

In contrast to the first trial, which ended last August with the jury deadlocked 8-2 against the NFL after 12½ days of deliberation, forewoman Patricia Howell announced the verdict only 5½ hours after the panel got the case Thursday.

The Coliseum and Raiders filed suit against the NFL after the league invoked its Rule 4.3, requiring approval of three-fourths of the team owners for a franchise shift to block the Raiders' move to the Coliseum.

The huge 100,000-seat stadium in downtown Los Angeles was left without a pro sports tenant when the Rams moved to suburban Anaheim two years ago.

The NFL said it would appeal the decision and seek a court order to keep the Raiders in Oakland for the 1982-83 season.

U.S. District Court Judge Harry Pregerson ordered the jury to return to court Sept. 20 to begin the damage phase of the trial. The Raiders asked $213 million in damages.

Al Lussac, executive assistant of the Oakland Raiders, said in an interview that whether Oakland will play in Los Angeles next season depended on the legal process.

'For 15 years we've known that rule was illegal, and knocking it down like this won't hurt the NFL one bit. We'll still be a great league, but now our laws will conform to the laws of the United States.'

—Oakland owner Al Davis

"We were all certain that the NFL would be found to be in violation of the antitrust act," Locasale said. "It (the verdict) doesn't surprise me."

The jury sent the judge two questions at 9:20 a.m. MDT asking him to clarify the meaning of NFL rule 4.3, which the panel later found violated federal law.

Raiders Owner Al Davis was overjoyed at the decision and took a few swipes at NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, his bitter opponent since Davis announced his desire to move his team.

"I'm elated. I knew it would happen, but it's no less exciting," Davis said. "We won it on credibility and the facts. For 15 years we've known that rule was illegal, and knocking it down like this won't hurt the NFL one bit. We'll still be a great league, but now our laws will conform to the laws of the United States."

"What bothered me most is that it became a personal thing with Rozelle. I don't like the way he handled this only. There were too many dirty tricks he finally admitted the real reason behind this whole thing — he wanted Los Angeles for himself."

"He finally said it was the best city in the country to have a team and he wasn't about to let me have it. I think we showed Rozelle that he can't treat people like that. He can't push people around like that."

Pete Schabarum, the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors chairman and an ex-NFL player, was also happy with the decision but said, "I do not see today's verdict as the non-stop ticket-bringing the Oakland Raiders to the Los Angeles Coliseum. I fully expect a challenge of the verdict, which means more lengthy court suits, delaying the return of professional football to Los Angeles."

NFL attorney Patrick Lynch said he was "very gravely disappointed" with the verdict.

Asked if the all-female jury had an effect on the outcome, he replied, "I don't say it was because they were women. It was because we had to consistently exclude sports fans from the jury."

Raiders attorney Joseph Alioto and Lynch agreed that there was no action the NFL could take to stop the Raiders from immediately moving to Los Angeles. Alioto said the team would now begin making arrangements to play the 1982-83 season in the Coliseum.

However, Lynch said that without a court order the league had no obligation to put the Raiders on the NFL schedule next season.

Classic Relays, individuals overshadow teams; Capital, Bruins win

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Individual and relay performances took the spotlight away from the team races in the second annual Twin Falls Classic track and field meet Friday.

The record will show that the Capital boys and Twin Falls girls took the team championships. But that was overshadowed by several factors.

The boys broke or tied nine records while the girls shattered seven more. But some of that is attributable to this being only the second year of the classic, not continuing the marks established over the years in the Southern Idaho Conference. The Twin Falls Classic, since that league broke up, merely is an extension of that competition.

Twin Falls junior Sally Butts became perhaps Idaho's best sprinter when she broke a pair of "magic" barriers in the sprints. She carded an 11.9 in the 100 and 24.3 in the 200. Neither will count as records because of an aiding wind but earlier in the day, when the wind wasn't as strong, she set records in the preliminaries at 12.2 and 25.1. She is believed the first girl ever to break 25 seconds in the 200, the previous best being a 25.0 by teammate Dana Libert who was second in 25.4 Friday.

Butts was more than ecstatic with the times, not letting the wind-aided performance get her much.

Her victory in the 100 came as the result of a brilliant start in which she boomed into a two-lane yard and in the first five and there was no catching.

"I kicked out as hard as I could,"

she said of the start. "That's where I messed up in the prelims so I concentrated on it in the finals."

It was the Butts-Libert one-two finish that nailed down the team title for the Bruin girls. Earlier, Libert took the spotlight by herself in romping to a 58.5 — a personal best — in the 400.

How did it feel?

"It hurts so bad," gasped the lithe senior.

Bruin halfmile ace Tammy Crow got a measure of revenge when she stormed down the stretch to win the 800 in 2:12, her best of the season. She defeated Sally Johnson of Meridian with that kick, which helped a little to assuage the sting of finishing third in the state last spring.

"She wasn't the defending champion," Crow said afterward. "Sally Thompson of Boise is but she wasn't able to run today. But Johnson beat me at state, too, so I feel pretty good about it."

A couple of sophomores served up a special duel in the 1600s. Minico's Charlotte Winward came into the events with slight better times but Borah's Karla Jacoby ended up with both titles — in 4:47 and 4:50.

Winward had posted a 15.1 last week when Jacoby said, "worried me but I had a 14.9 couple of weeks ago, so I felt I could win it." In the intermediates, Jacoby took the lead at the top of the straight-away and won by four-tenths of a second.

All of those performances were records. But sharing in the record-breaking was Carol Bradley of Pocatello who dropped the 3,200 standard to 11:53.6 and the 1,600 to 5:24.4.

Capital anchorman Don Ames, center, starts his winning dash against Borah and Twin Falls in the 880-yard relay

In the field events, Carol Klass of Capital upped the shot mark to 40-1/2 and Gaylene Somsen of Pocatello headed a stellar discus field by twirling the platter 129-2.

In the boys division, Borah's Greg Harrison dropped the sprint records to 10.7 and 21.7. Three of the four relay marks were lowered and the fourth was tied.

Capital dropped the 880-yard event to 1:39.9, the 400-yard to 43.3 and the mile to 3:22.4, getting up in the last step to nip Meridian in the latter. Pocatello tied the medley record of 3:40.3.

In the field events, Randy Homer hit a career best at 6-6 in the high jump while Capital's John Fransen whipped off a spectacular 181-6 in the discus — upping his own record from last year by 24 feet.

Minico made its best showing in several years in the event, coming up fifth, three points ahead of Twin Falls. Both teams had some problems.

The Spartans lost a hoped-for double in the high hurdles when Roger Duffin and Don Helms went sixth and seventh. Duffin got some of that back in the intermediates where he suddenly became a champion after looking at second all the race.

He was trailing Borah's Ron Talbot who had to crow hop the last hurdle after "slutter-stepping." That gave Duffin all he needed to make up the four yards and win the short sprint to the tape.

"Twin Falls was looking at a third or fourth in the 440-yard relay when anchor man Larry Hurt's arm was hit accidentally by a Meridian runner. The baton flew up in the air along with six possible Bruin points."

Minico's Albert Lara, upset with his loss in the 1,200 (see story on Page 12), led actually the final three legs in running the 1,600 in 4:26.9.

"I missed my best time by four tenths of a second," Lara said.

Cheek's quickness ousts Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Speed is one of Maurice Cheek's biggest assets and Friday night he used it to run the Milwaukee Bucks into the ground and his Philadelphia 76ers into the Eastern Conference championship against the Boston Celtics.

Cheek had 26 points and six assists to lead the 76ers to a 102-90 victory over the Bucks and a four games to two series triumph. The 76ers on Sunday will play the defending champions in Boston in Game No. 1 of the conference title series.

"I have more quickness than he (Brian Winters) has," Cheek said. "You have to utilize your talents. I have more quickness and I used it tonight." Cheek and fellow guard Andrew Toney, who had 17 points, ran the Bucks' guard corps ragged offensively and their teammates played superb defense to almost totally disrupt the Bucks' high-powered offense.

Milwaukee, normally a good shooting team, shot 39 percent, hitting only 35 of 88 shots from the field while the 76ers were 40-of-76 from the field.

"Better credit their defense rather than our offensive breakdowns," said Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson. "We didn't have a shot that wasn't contested after the first quarter."

The Bucks led 27-23 after one quarter but Philadelphia tightened up after that.

"The key was the way we played defense after the first period," said 76er Coach Billy Cunningham. "And Maurice Cheek in the second half almost carried us on the offense end of the court."

In the third period, the Bucks had narrowed Philadelphia's lead to 58-54 with 6:35 left, but Toney and Bobby Jones reeled off four straight points from the free-throw line and Milwaukee never got close again.

Mickey Johnson had 25 points to lead Milwaukee and Bob Lanier, who hero at Game 5, chipped in 19. Bobby Jones had 14 and Julius Erving 13 for Philadelphia.

Caldwell tracksters copy Tigers' style

BURLEY — Caldwell stole all of Jerome's thunder in the Cross State Conference Track and Field Championships Friday.

The Cougar boys and girls became the first, other than Jerome, to sweep both divisions in the one-day showdown that brought together the teams from eight of Idaho's largest A-2 and smallest A-1 schools.

The Caldwell boys did it with depth and great strength in the field events that offset Jerome's dominance in the distances. The Cougar boys topped Jerome 174-159½ but it actually could have been a lot closer since Jerome saw its medley relay team hit the tape first, but then become disqualified for overrunning an exchange zone.

It was tighter in the girls division where Caldwell nipped the Tigers 153-152. The Cougar girls did that by going one-two in the 1,600-meter run and then taking a third-to-offset Jerome's first place in the meet-ending 1,600-meter relay.

"That medley disqualifying killed us but they got so many points in the field events that it would have been tough for us to overcome them anyway," said Jerome Coach Tim Dunne.

"I thought all our people performed pretty well but Caldwell had such great depth we couldn't get enough points on the track to offset them."

Caldwell went 1-3-5 in the pole vault, 1-3-5 in the triple jump and 2-3-5 in the shot put. The Cougars came out of the morning finals with 56 points. Jerome picked up 50 but that included a one-two-three finish in the 3,200-meter run. Sophomore Gary Hulseley did his part in the weights, picking up a first and second.

Caldwell picked up just two first places on the track against five for Jerome but the damage already had been done.

Lucia Wanders won the 1,600 and 3,200 to pace the Caldwell girls' win but the key came in the 1,600 where she was trailed across by teammate Peggy Pollock. That gave Caldwell 18 points and moved them out of Jerome's reach.

The Tigers girls performed well on the track as Vikki Winder took the two short sprints and Joni James won the quarter. Endi Schrader came from behind to collect both hurdle titles.

Bottom men in the order produce for Bruins

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Who says eighth- and ninth-place hitters have to be 125-pound, weaklings who produce nothing but strikeouts and feeble pop-ups?

Brook Miller and Lance Sellers certainly don't fit the stereotype of the hitter near the bottom of the batting order. Each drove in two runs with two-out base hits Friday afternoon, helping the Twin Falls Bruins to a 6-1 triumph over Highland at Frontier Field.

The victory gives Twin Falls a 20-6 record heading into the Fourth District tournament beginning Monday.

The Bruins' neat performance, including an error on the final inning, left Coach Bill Ingram optimistic.

"I think we're ready for district," Ingram said. "We're playing better right now. That (Randy) Astin kid (Highland's starting pitcher) is supposed to be their number one pitcher and we hit him fairly well."

Actually, the Bruins collected just five hits off Astin. But the first two, struck by Miller and Sellers, came at the right times for the Bruins.

Astin looked indomitable during a three-out three-down first inning, but he experienced control woes in the second inning, walking Mike Black and Brett Semple and wild-pitching them into scoring position.

"This brought up Miller, batting eighth in the Bruins' order. With Ingram yelling, 'Keep your hands back!' from the third-base coaching box, Miller stroked a 1-1 pitch into right-center field to give Twin Falls a 2-0 lead.

"He had been in a little bit of a slump, but he's been hitting better in batting practice," Ingram said of Miller. "It's getting his hands back a little more and concentrating on the ball."

Astin again lapsed in the fourth, walking Jose Salinas, Semple and Miller to load the bases with two out for Sellers. The Bruins' ninth-place batter fouled off Astin's first pitch, but drove the next one into left field for another two-run single.

Brook Brodeen and Steve Kravitz combined to retire 14 consecutive Rams from the second through sixth innings. After Kravitz concluded his three perfect innings — which featured six strikeouts — Victor Valdez finished the game, permitting Highland an unearned run.

Twin Falls opens the district tournament Monday against Frontier with a 3:30 p.m. game at Frontier Field.

Schmidt lifts Phillies

By United Press International

Mike Schmidt is getting back in form.

Schmidt, who missed several games with a rib injury, capped a four-run ninth inning with a two-out, three-run homer Friday night to lift the Phillies to a 5-2 victory over the San Diego Padres at Philadelphia.

Dodgers 6, Expos 2

At Montreal, Dusty Baker drove in four runs with a two-run homer, a sacrifice fly and a single to pace the Dodgers. Rob Welch, 4-1, went the distance for the Dodgers for the second time this season. He scattered six hits, walked one and struck out three.

Cubs 12, Astros 6

At Chicago, Keith Moreland drove in seven runs with a pair of three-run homers and pitcher Randy Martz, 3-2, had three RBI during a six-run 11th inning to carry the Cubs. Moreland's first homer came off Nolan Ryan, 2-5, who gave up nine runs in 2 2/3 innings as his ERA ballooned to 6.92. Moreland has 25 RBI and a career-high eight homers this season.

Reds 5, Pirates 0

At Cincinnati, Mario Soto fired a five-out and struck out 19th place reliever Jim Kaut with a bases-loaded double with one out in the 10th inning to give the Braves the victory. Gene Garber, 3-1, relieved the ninth and snapped the Cardinals' four-game winning streak in a meeting of the NL division leaders.

Braves 6, Cardinals 3 (10)

At St. Louis, Chris Chambliss greeted reliever Jim Kaut with a bases-loaded double with one out in the 10th inning to give the Braves the victory. Gene Garber, 3-1, relieved the ninth and snapped the Cardinals' four-game winning streak in a meeting of the NL division leaders.

Bruins win; Rohweder honored

IDAHO FALLS — Twin Falls golf Coach Al Rohweder received a double surprise Friday.

First, the second-year skipper was named the Gem State Conference golf coach of the year and secondly, his team bounced out of a slump in a big way to win the Idaho Falls Invitational by 14 strokes over Skyline High.

Steve Meyerhoeffer and Dave Rasmussen tied for medalist at 76 over the tough Pinescrest course.

BURLEY — The Caldwell Cougars claimed the team title in the Cross State Conference golf tournament Friday but Burley's Shane Wall and Dave Parker ran one-two for medalist honors.

Caldwell won with 311 strokes, two

Meyerhoeffer won the honor in a playoff.

The Bruins recorded a 304 team total while Skyline was second at 322.

Jason Meyerhoeffer and Dave Clausen each had 78 for Twin Falls.

Skyline Coach Floyd Young, hopeful of a win on his home course, was impressed with the Bruins.

"This is the best we've done all year at Pinescrest and they (Twin Falls) just blew us out of the water," Young said. "It was a big win for Twin Falls."

They'd been beaten by Highland the last two times out and today Highland was way back."

1. Twin Falls 286, 2. Skyline 322, 3. Shelley 412, 4. Highland 415, 5. Idaho Falls (No. 1) 336, 6. Idaho Falls (No. 2) 336, 7. Minidoka 336, 8. American Falls 336, 9. Skyline 336, 10. Bonneville 336, 11. Blackfoot 336, 12. Preston 372, 13. Mars Valley 372, 14. Pocatello 372.

Caldwell nips Burley for Cross State title

BURLEY — The Caldwell Cougars claimed the team title in the Cross State Conference golf tournament Friday but Burley's Shane Wall and Dave Parker ran one-two for medalist honors.

Caldwell won with 311 strokes, two ahead of Burley. They were followed by Madison at 331, Jerome 337, Rigby 355 and Buhl 375.

In the girls best ball division, Rochelle Wall and Tami Newcomb took the title at 82 and shared the medalist pin with 90s. They were followed by Buhl at 93 and Jerome with 95.

Scoring for the Burley boys Wall and Parker and Kevin White 84 and Dan Simpson 79.

Madison claims crown

BURLEY — Madison took advantage of Burley's four errors and poor hitting to capture the Cross State Conference baseball championship with a 6-1 victory over the Bobcats Friday.

Madison led 3-1 going into the fifth inning when it exploded for three runs to lock up the title.

Burley finished second via a 3-1 triumph over Caldwell in the semifinals. The Bobcats' Rick Aschon pitched a two-hitter and struck out 15 in what Burley Coach Dean Satterfield said was "the best he's thrown in his life."

Jim McCord's two RBIs in the fourth inning gave the Bobcats a lead they never relinquished.

Caldwell was third following by Mountain Home and Rigby.

As far as the championship, Satterfield said errors and lack of hitting were the Bobcats' only problem.

"We didn't play real good defense with the errors, but we didn't get quite the pitching performance that (Rick) had in the Caldwell game," he said of the six runs Allen Rice and McCord gave up.

Sneed up by two at windy Houston Open

HOUSTON (UPI) — PGA tour veteran Ed Sneed, who is remembered more for a loss than for his three victories, shot a one-under-par Friday on the wind-blown Woodlands Country Club course to open a two-stroke lead at the midway point of the $350,000 Houston Open.

England's Peter Oosterhuis and Australia's Bob Shearer both briefly went to right-under-par during play but finished at six-under 136 after 36 holes. Oosterhuis fired his second straight 68 while Shearer had a 67.

Fred Couples also put together a 67 to move to within three shots of the lead, as those golfers who had pushed Sneed in the first round failed to cope with blustery winds that whipped through the east Texas Piney Woods layout.

Scott Hoch, who trailed Sneed by one stroke after 12 holes, shot a 69 to fall four shots behind. Other first-round leaders — Bobby Clampett, Bill Rogers, Jodie Mudd and Ed Dougherty — could not crack par.

With Hoch at 138 were Hale Irwin and Tom Purtzer.

Stephenson, Whitworth tie for LPGA lead

SUFFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Defending champion Jan Stephenson and veteran Kathy Whitworth fired five-under-par 68s Friday to share the first-round lead in the $125,000 Suffolk LPGA Classic.

Beth Daniel, who has won three tournaments this year, was one stroke back at 69. Vicki Tabor was alone at three-under-par 70. Six players — Donna Caponi, Pat Bradley, Beverly Klass, Janet Coles, Chris Johnson and Lori Huxhold — were log jammed at 71.

Stephenson, who broke her foot in the off-season, is trying to regain the form that won her more than $180,000 last year. She eagled two of the first five holes on her way to a four-under 32 on the front nine. Except for a birdie on the par-5 15th, she parred out the back side for her 68.

Whitworth, seeking her 83rd career tour victory — which would give her the all-time lead — recorded an eagle on the front nine and made the turn at three-under.
